

Does the U.S. have any legal requirements for selling a textile product as 'organic?'

At present there are no processing standards in the United States for textiles. However, if you advertise or sell your textiles with the claim that they contain "organic fibers," the organic fibers must be produced to the U.S. NOP standards. The fibers must be certified by a USDA-accredited certifying agent.

e-CFR